

App: Apps offer user interface on top of the functionalities provided by the cloud.

Cloud: Cloud softwares are the central backend in IoT systems that collects and processes data from devices, and control the devices based on instructions from automation scripts or user demands.

Edge: Edge softwares route messages between cloud layer and device layer without data storage or processing.

Device: Device software run on embedded devices and interacting with the physical world.